

RAFA CABRERA-BELLO

Rafa Cabrera-Bello is a professional golfer currently playing on the European Tour. Born and raised in Las Palmas, Gran Canaria, Spain, Cabrera-Bello picked up the game of golf at a very young age. As an amateur, Cabrera-Bello dominated competition in his home country, winning the Spanish National Championship at every age group level from under-7 through under-18. Making a name for himself on the European Tour, Cabrera-Bello turned professional in 2005 at the age of 20. Since then, the Spaniard has racked up an impressive five career professional wins, including the 2005 Canarias Professional Championship as an amateur, two wins on the Challenge Tour and two wins on the European Tour. In 2016, after a strong finish at the WGC-Dell Match Play, he moved up high enough in the rankings to qualify to compete in his first Masters.

“As a professional golfer and passionate surfer, Oakley products and technologies fit into every aspect of my life. From the performance lens, Prizm Golf, to the lifestyle lens, Prizm Daily, the technology allows me to see things more clearly and have a more enhanced experience.”