

RYAN SAYLOR

VICE PRESIDENT OF ADVANCED PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT

Founder of the Research and Development Lab at Oakley, Ryan Saylor has spent his entire 20+ year career at Oakley focusing on product innovation and testing. A pioneer in product development and creation, Saylor is constantly tasked with finding out what is next in the future of active eyewear. Saylor is an innovator in the industry and continues to build and install seamless experiences and technologies for Prizm that cater to every lifestyle.

Outside of the office, Saylor lives and breathes the Oakley lifestyle by taking part in just about every two-wheeled sport out there.

“My role at Oakley is to be a catalyst and drive innovation. Prizm is a powerful technology with broad applications and I am tasked with finding the opportunities within each environment and sport.”